Yorkville Sound to Showcase New Products and New Brand at InfoComm 2019

TORONTO, ON (May 14, 2019)- Yorkville Sound will be appearing at InfoComm 2019 with new gear and a new brand under its wing. Along with Yorkville's new Synergy Array, the Canadian-based Pro Audio Manufacturer and Distributor will exhibit new products from Dynaudio, ART, and now, HK Audio for the first time.

Yorkville Sound's U.S. Director of Sales, Steve Hendee, curated the booth with the InfoComm attendee in mind. "Firstly, we will have our Synergy Array Series displayed in a few different configurations," states Hendee. The new point source system from Yorkville turned heads at the 2019 Winter NAMM Loudspeaker System Showcase while displaying its power, ease of use and array-ability. "Our production team worked double time to build units for the NAMM show, we sold them on the spot," Hendee continues, "We are thrilled to show Synergy at InfoComm."

Synergy is not the only new gem from Yorkville to appear at the booth. "We have expanded our Excursion Series of battery powered portable speakers," adds Hendee. "We will have an Excursion section featuring the new EXM Mobile 12; our light-weight twelve inch version featuring three inputs and up to six hours of battery performance at full power."

In addition to the new products, Yorkville will bring their tried, tested and true product lines that have become cornerstones in sound reinforcement. "You can count on Elite, including the new ES21P Subwoofer, Parasource and the install units we are known for being featured at our booth."

On the distribution side, Dynaudio's new Core 7 & Core 59 studio monitors will be making their US tradeshow debut at Yorkville Sound's booth. InfoComm coincides with the monitor's North American retail release. "The Core series is the real deal," says Hendee. "When you use the Core monitors you hear what the listener will hear in their car, home stereo, and every day listening situations - no surprises."

German pro audio manufacturer, HK Audio, will be part of Yorkville Sound's InfoComm booth for the first time. InfoComm holds special significance for this partnership; "During InfoComm 2018, we began discussion with HK Audio about representing their brand for North America. Now we are displaying them among our esteemed product line in 2019," says Hendee. "Expect to see an emphasis on HK Audio's Elements Linear 7, and SI Series at our booth."
